

Graduate Intern Job Description

Department of Health Promotion Stamps Health Services Georgia Institute of Technology

Education: Graduate student currently pursuing degree in public health, health education, health promotion, or related field

Experience:

- Working knowledge of health promotion and behavior change theories and the ecological framework
- Experience with literature review and program planning/implementation
- Demonstrated interpersonal skills and the ability to understand and address behavioral health concerns of a culturally diverse university student population
- Proven ability to work as a collaborative team member with students, faculty, and staff throughout campus community
- Excellent listening, oral presentation, written communication, and computer skills

Preferred Qualifications:

- Demonstrated skills in health behavior research methodology, needs assessment, health communication, social marketing, and population-based health promotion. Proven ability to effectively communicate both individually and in group settings on a variety of health issues.

Duties & Responsibilities:

- Responsible for planning, implementing, and evaluating health awareness events, such as World AIDS Day, National Condom Day, National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, Sexual Assault Awareness Month, Love Your Body Week, and Great American Smokeout
- Provide training and educational opportunities that are strategically designed and evaluated to meet the health needs of GT students
- Develop and maintain collaborative partnerships to advocate for and advance the health of the student population
- Develop and update web and paper resources
- Assist with strategic planning process to help re-create health promotion program

Other information:

This is a 20-25 hour/week paid position. Ideal candidate will be a second-year graduate student available for 10-month commitment starting on August 4, 2008.

Application process:

Students must submit an application, cover letter, resume, unofficial transcript, and two references. Please submit application materials to:

Michelle Cohen
740 Ferst Dr.
Atlanta, GA 30332
Office: (404) 385-0375
Fax: (404) 385-2106

michelle.cohen@health.gatech.edu

Application can be found at:

www.health.gatech.edu/departments/health_promo/Our_services/student_involvement.htm

Review of applications will begin on May 19, 2008 and continue until the position is filled.